The Royal Advisor

Dr. Brittany Bock was born and raised in central Florida. While growing up, she was very involved with horses and cattle through Girl Scouts, 4-H and FFA in conjunction with a strong high school vocational agriculture program . Dr. Bock proceeded to the University of Florida in 1979 to obtain her B.S. in 1982 (at the age of 20) and her M.S. in 1984. While an undergraduate at Univ. of Fla., Dr. Bock was very active in Block and Bridle, Equestrian Club and was on the 1981 Livestock Judging team. She also worked two summers at the Univ. of Fla. Agriculture Research Center in Ona, FL helping conduct cattle nutritional experiments with stocker and feedlot cattle. She also worked at the University's swine unit for two semesters and the nutrition laboratory for two semesters. During her M.S. program on a part time basis and on a full time basis for the following year, Dr. Bock worked at a nearby 40,000 head feedlot. She then worked at a 1400 cow dairy for six months until returning to school at Kansas State University in 1986 to obtain her Ph.D. in ruminant nutrition.

In 1990, Dr. Bock was the beef and horse nutritionist for a large feed cooperative, Agway, Inc., in Syracuse, NY for 3 years. She then returned to Kansas in 1994 to work for PM Ag Products, Inc. as an area manager and nutritionist, covering Kansas, Nebraska and South Dakota. In 1997, Dr. Bock took a position with a private livestock nutrition and management consulting firm, Koers-Turgeon Consulting based in Salina, KS.

Dr. Bock began teaching and advising students at Fort Hays State University in 1998 and also became the Block and Bridle Advisor.

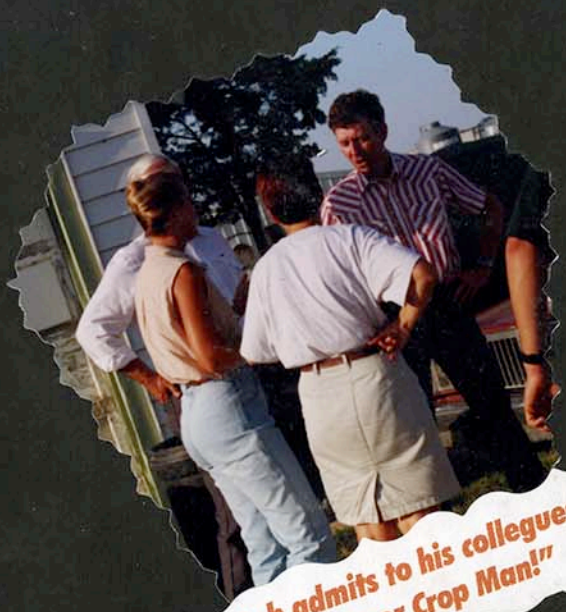
August 25, 1999

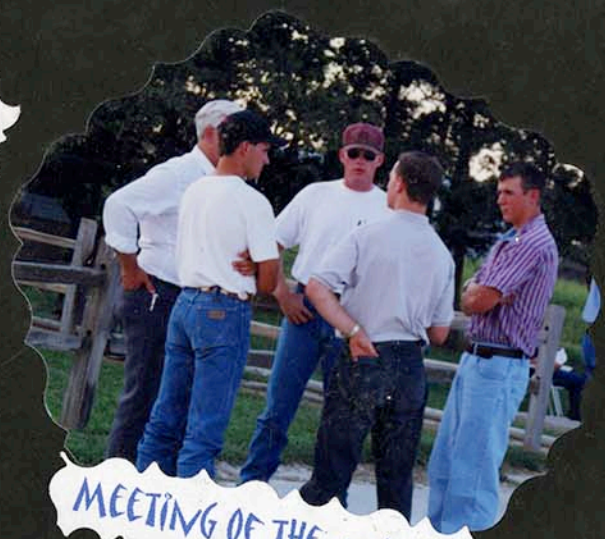
The MEN are cooking!?!?!

I slaved over this for hours!

Chowtime!!



Dr. Bob admits to his collegues, "I am the Super Crop Man!"



MEETING OF THE MINDS

Each fall, the Agriculture Department holds a picnic to allow incoming students to meet the faculty, become familiar with the Ag. Clubs on campus, and meet other students. The picnic also allows returning students to mingle with old friends and make new.

Did you see that hottie-tottie?!?!

It's a girl thing...

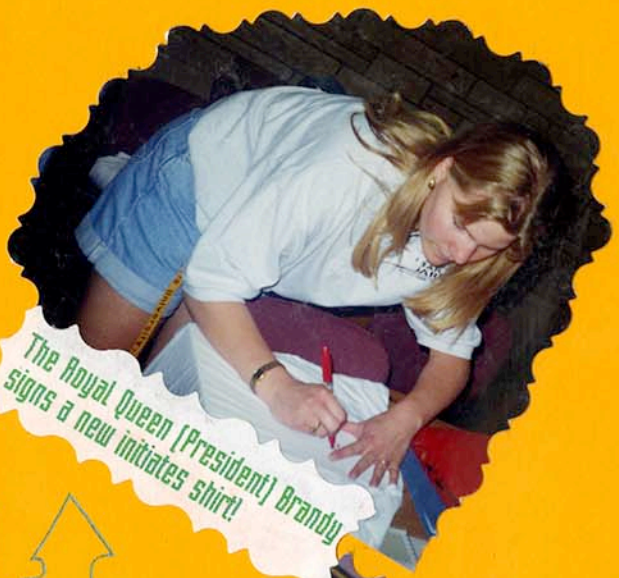
New Initiates Dance

September 8, 1999

With the start of the new academic year, new students join the B&B kingdom. The first gesture is to welcome them to the kingdom with the new initiates dance. A T-shirt was designed by each new initiate and had to be signed by returning members and officers.

We are so happy to be back to school!?!?



The Royal Queen [President] Brandy signs a new initiates shirt!

C.J. signs his name and phone number on the three new initiates shirts.

Somebody WARN them!!!

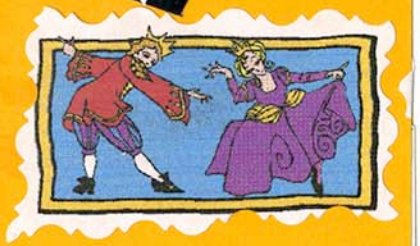
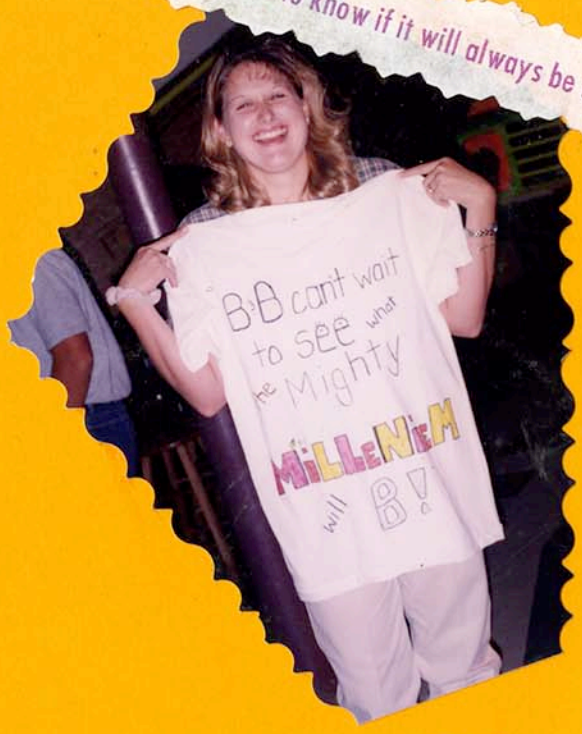
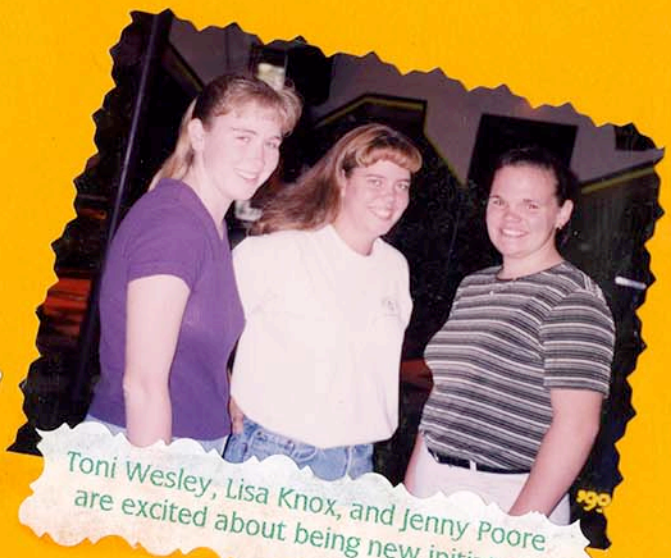
You can't see me!

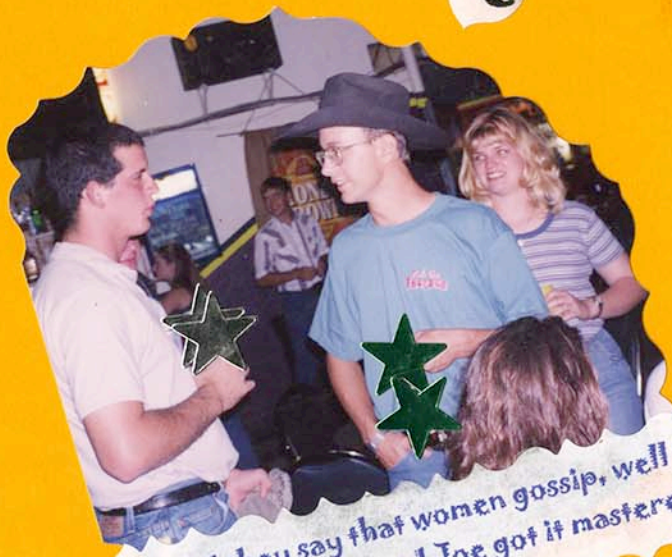


Lynnsey wants to know if it will always be this fun?!?

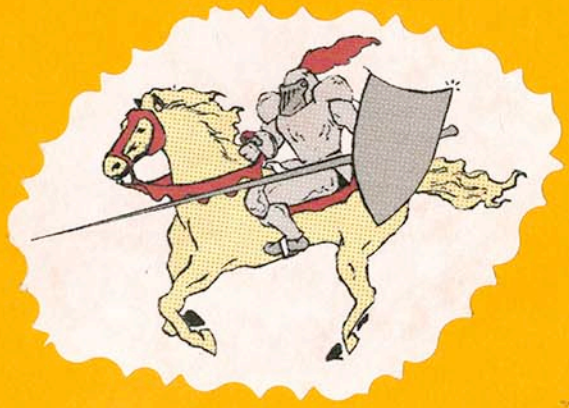




Toni Wesley, Lisa Knox, and Jenny Poore are excited about being new initiates.



And they say that women gossip, well it looks like Eric and Joe got it mastered!!



Eric Slagle won the $25 gift certificate for the best designed new initiate T-shirt.

Kansas State Fair

September 11, 1999

Dr. Bock and Andy Zweygardt tell them all about FHSU!

Each September, B&B royalty devote time to working at the FHSU booth at the Kansas State Fair. This allows the royalty the chance to promote FHSU, the agriculture department, and scout for new knights.

FORT HAYS STATE UNIVERSITY
AGRICULTURE

The Agriculture Department offers students an opportunity for study and training in preparation for careers in modern agriculture. The development of practical management skills, coupled with the teaching of current theoretical methods, provides students with a desirable balance of practice and theory. Graduates are well prepared to meet the future challenges that face agriculture.

FACULTY

All agriculture faculty possess doctorate degrees. They have a broad educational background with wide areas of specialization.

CURRICULUM

The department offers academic study leading to a bachelor of science degree in either agribusiness or agriculture. The agriculture major is separated into specialized options of study in animal science, crop science, soil science or general agriculture.

The exciting careers of production agriculture and business are combined in the study of agribusiness. As agriculture changes, managers find that understanding agricultural finance and marketing becomes increasingly important.

Students in the animal science option examine the selection, breeding, feeding, management and marketing of beef and dairy cattle, horses, sheep and swine. In the crop science option students explore various aspects of crop production including historical importance, utilization, production practices, pest control and genetic improvement. Development, management and conservation of the soil, with an emphasis on the relationship between the soil and crop production is the focus in the soil science option. The general agriculture option offers a balanced course of study in production agriculture and agribusiness.

Pre-Veterinary Medicine

The pre-professional course of study includes courses required for consideration of acceptance into a program leading to the doctor of veterinary medicine degree. Required coursework has a strong emphasis in the natural and physical sciences and includes some agriculture classes.

MINOR REQUIREMENTS

Students can obtain a minor in agriculture upon successful completion of 20 specified hours in agricultural classes. Courses range from Animal and Plant Science to Marketing Farm Products.

For a more detailed listing of classes, please refer to the current university catalog.

STUDENT ORGANIZATIONS

Students may become involved in departmental and campus activities to expand their college experience, develop leadership skills and explore professional interests. The department of agriculture sponsors the following activities: Block and Bridle Club, Delta Tau Alpha (a national agriculture honor society), Rodeo Club, National Agri-Marketing Association (NAMA), a livestock judging team, and a crops judging team.

FACILITIES

The 3,825 acre University Farm adds strength to the teaching program by allowing students to gain practical experience in production agriculture and develop management skills. The University Farm operates primarily as a commercial farm, thereby providing a realistic teaching laboratory to apply classroom learning and observe practical agriculture. The farm consists of five major agriculture enterprises: beef, dairy, sheep, swine and crop production. Some students are employed on a part-time basis affording them both experience and financial aid.

Little International Fitting And Showing Contest

April 15, 2000

April found the Royal Court heading to the kingdom's pavilion for the 2000 Little International Fitting and Showing Contest. This years theme was "THE MILLENNIUM SHOWDOWN." The contest is open to all students on campus, which allows the peasants (non-members) and the royalty the opportunity to train, fit, and show livestock. Cattle, swine, sheep, and dairy are provided by the kingdom's barnyard, while contestants must provide their own horses. Members draw for the animals that they will show. They then have three weeks before show day to prepare for the big showdown.

Chair Saleena Dutton and Co-Chair Andrew Maupin were responsible for gathering donations, selecting awards, hiring judges, gathering livestock and equipment for students to use, planning demonstrations, and planning a banquet and dance.

Each species had individual chairs and co-chairs, assisted the event Chair and Co-Chair with planning demonstrations, helping in the show ring on show day, and other minor details.

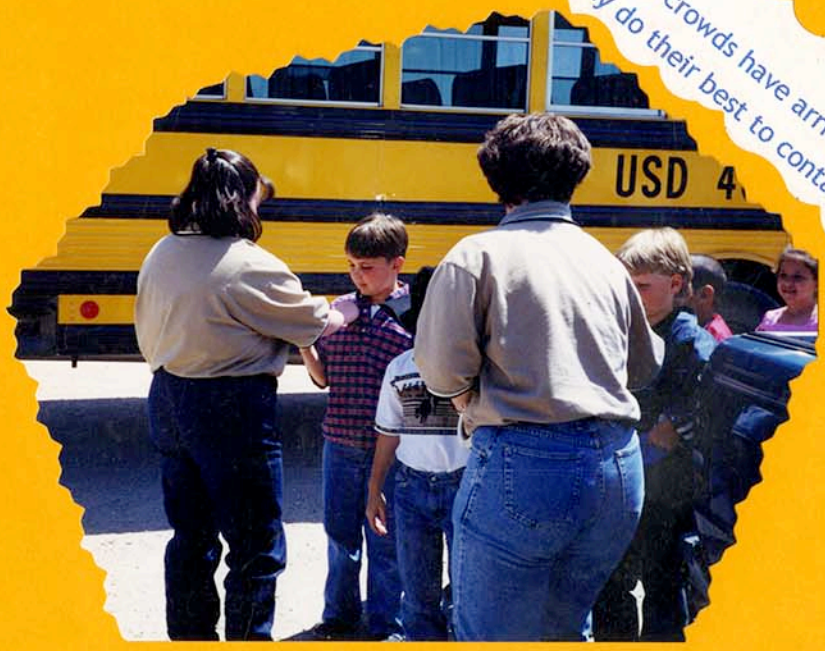
Ag. Awareness

April 27-28, 2000

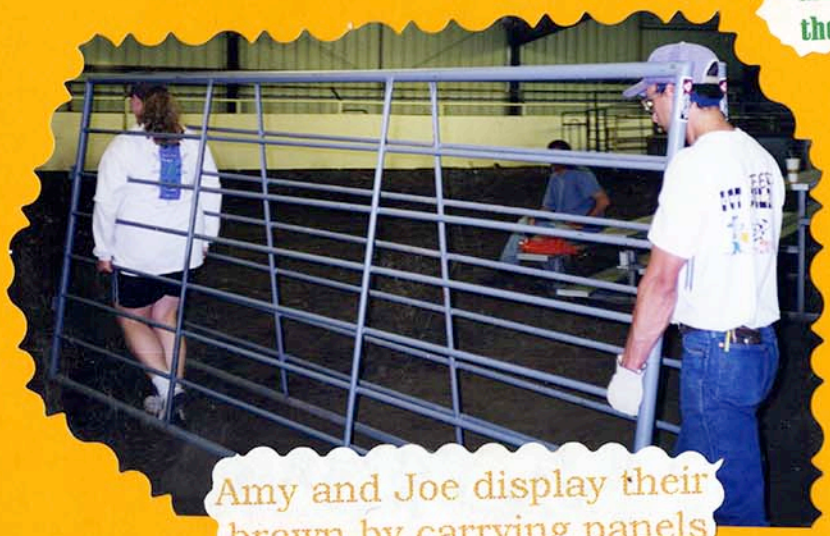
For two days in April, the Royal Court informed the little people about the Royal Agricultural Enterprises. Chair Robby Gardner and Co-Chair Lisa Pfannenstiel planned the Royal Experience for the preschool through fourth graders from the surrounding areas. The kids learned about sheep, horses, pigs, goats, chickens, ducks, roping, dairy calves, how to milk a cow, tractors, plants, and roping. The kids also received a bag full of goodies including pencils, stickers, and brochures from various associations and breeders and some string cheese.



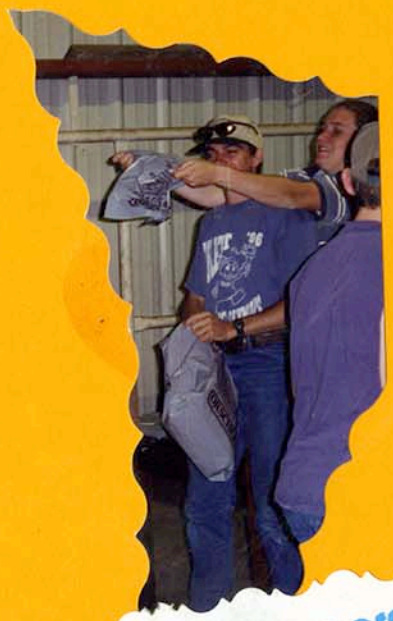
The crowds have arrived, Rhiannon and Becky do their best to contain the exhuberance.

HighMark™ L2A9113-P

Man I hope those kids enjoy these goodies, this is hard work.



Amy and Joe display their brawn by carrying panels



Heather wants more stuff. Todd look out!!

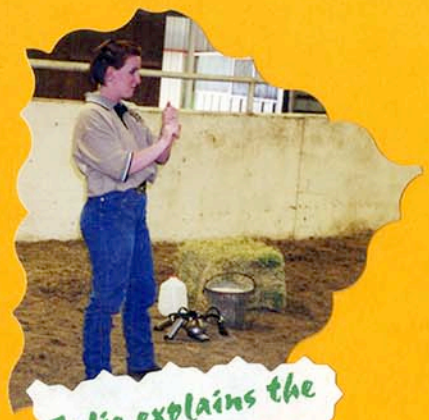
The assembly line is hard at work!!

Heather dances while she works..

OGOR DEBATES AS TO WHERE THE PANEL SHOULD GO!!

They keep going and going and going.... Is the end in sight???

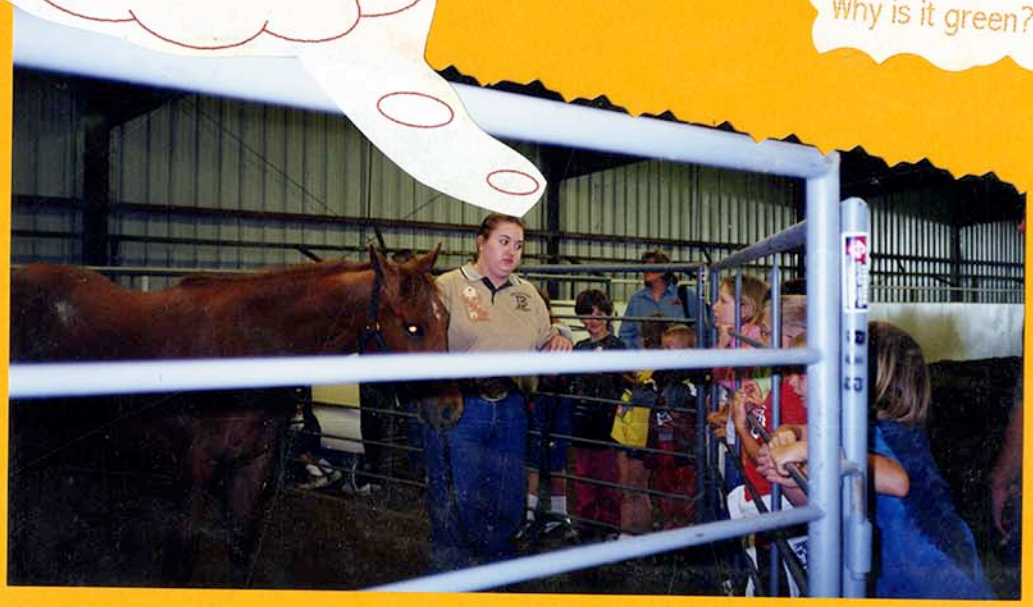
Behind you Darla, it's gonna get you!!!!

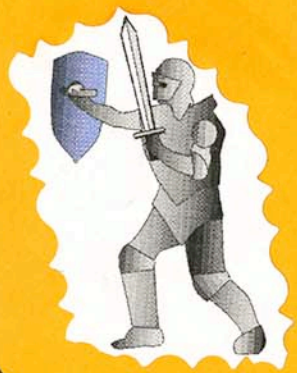


Julie explains the care and milking of dairy cattle.

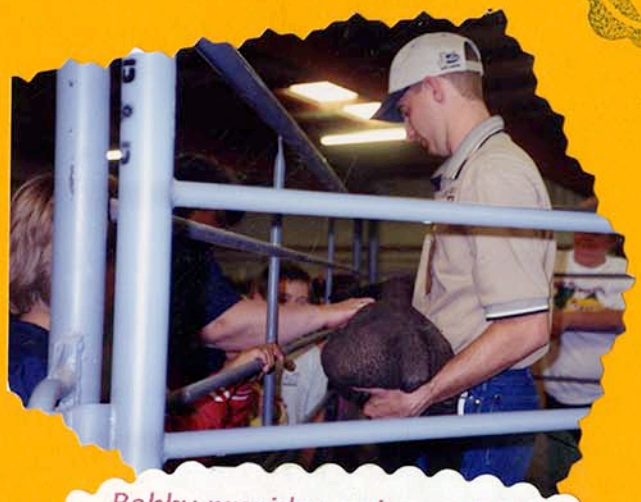
Eric, why does it grow that way?? Why is it green? Does it have leaves??

Thank god Junior is behaving, now if only the kids would!!!





What am I talking about ??



Robby provides a chance for the children to touch a lamb.

DUCK, DUCK,... GOOSE?

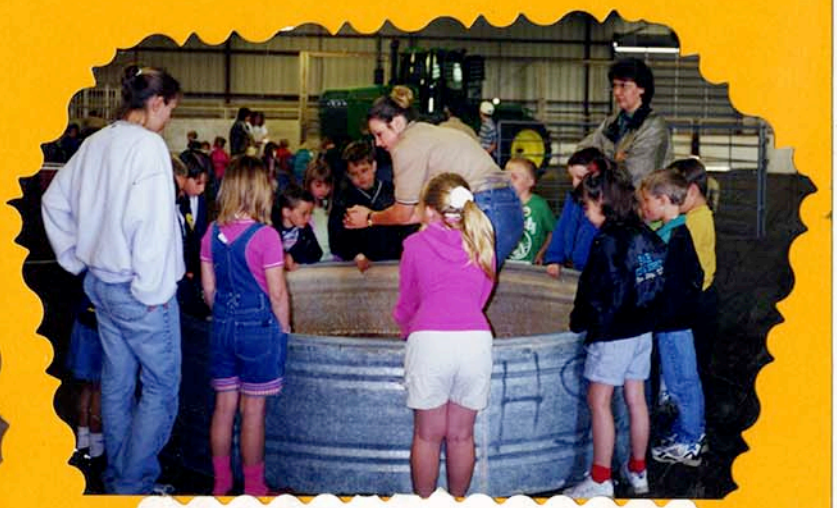
This little piggy went to the market, this little piggy stayed home.....

HighMark™ L2A9113-P

Wow, that tractor is HUGE!!!

Robby helps out an aspiring roper!

Heather gives a little one on one with the proper technique.



Uh, Lynnsey, when will they lay an egg???

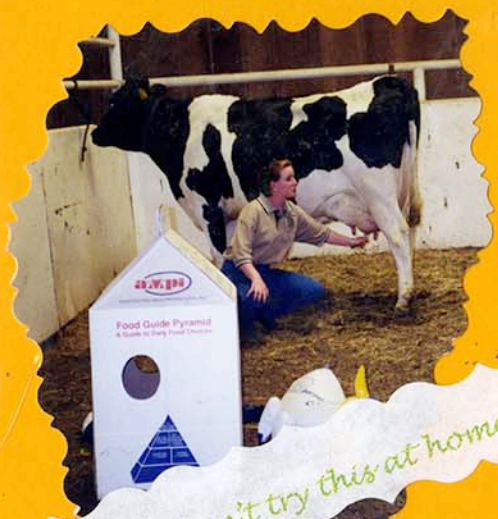
Becky had two little lambs, their fleece was not white as snow....

Sondra holds the calf , while she tells the kids, "really she likes it!"

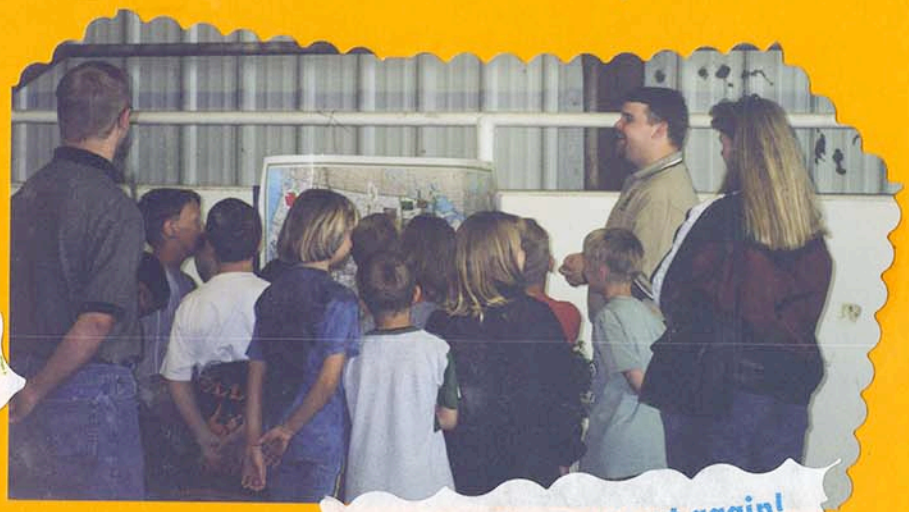
The next Vanna shows off the next prize, a GOAT!!

HighMark
L2A9113-P

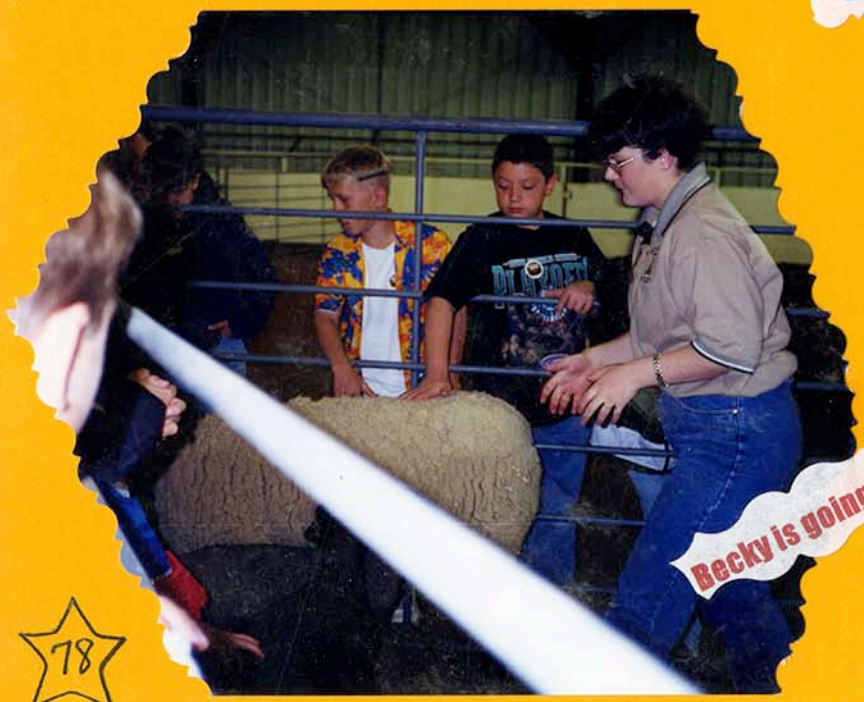
Kerry explains all about horses.



Now kids, don't try this at home!!

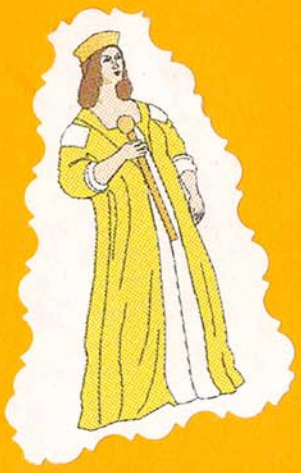


Eric explaining crops yet again!

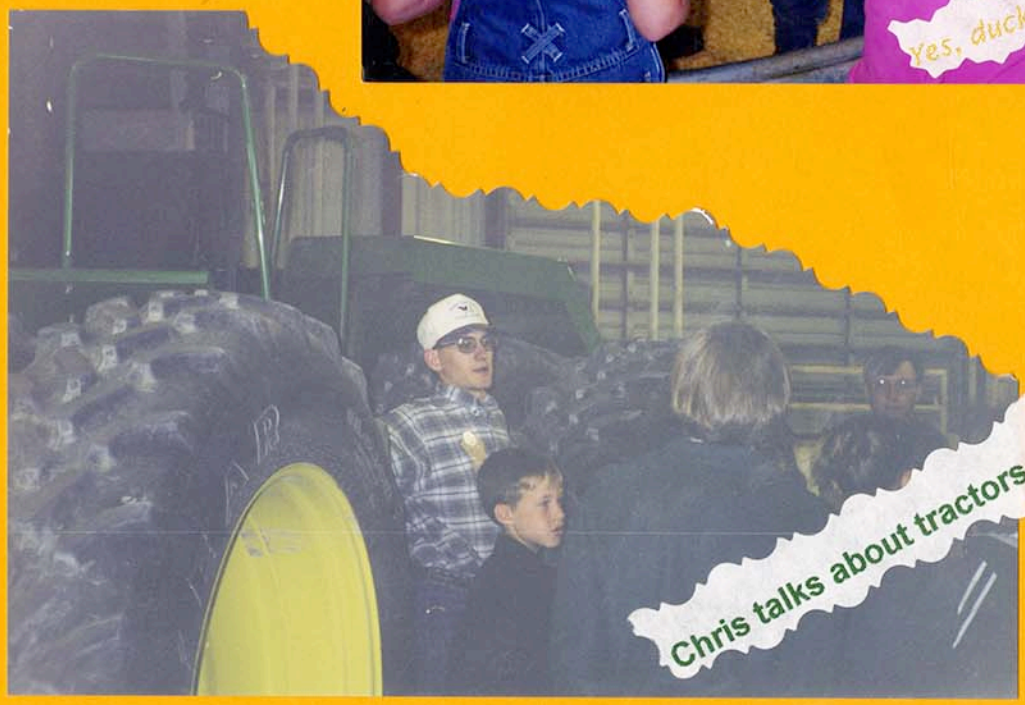


Becky is going in for the kill!!!!!!

The kids have follow the leader down pat as they follow Amy.



Yes, ducks have teeth too!



Chris talks about tractors and their uses.

Kerry down on the kids and the goat's level.

Joe takes time out to help a new roper while Brandi looks on.

Wow, you finally got one.

THE END !!!

Ag. Olympics

Mav 1. 2000

A few of the royalty took part in the Ag. Olympics sponsored by the FHSU National Agri-Marketing Association. Contestants participated in cracker whistles, fireman's carry, three legged race, water transfer, cowboy frisbee, and blindfolded wheelbarrow race. Many of the contestants had a lot of fun displaying their "barnyard" talents.

Can you whistle with saltine crackers in your mouth?

To the left!
No, your other left!

Left, Right! Left, Right!

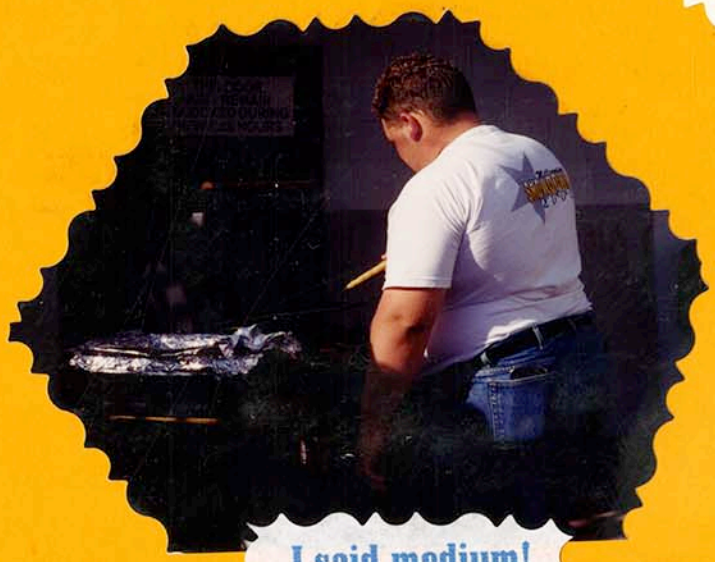
Giddy-up, Andy!

Attempting to whistle Dixie!

END OF YEAR PICNIC

May 3. 2000

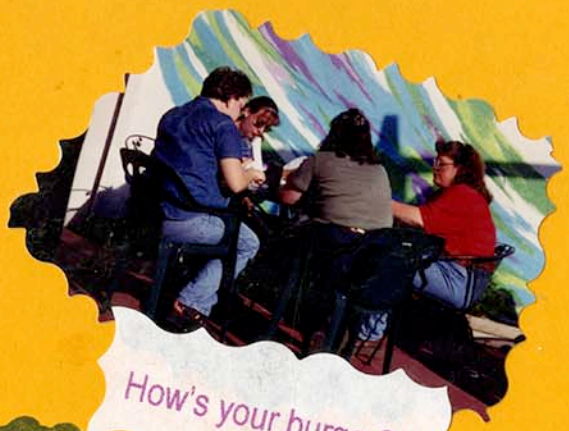
The last event of the year for the royalty was the End of Year Picnic. The picnic was held at Sip N Spin. The New Royal King, Anthony Ogorzolka, took over the presidency with his first duty—flipping burgers. It was a time of parting for the Royal Court. Some of the royalty would head their separate ways, while others would be back next year for another "ROYAL EXPERIENCE!!!"



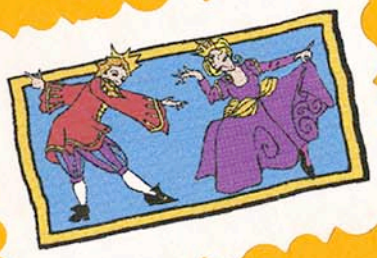
I said medium!

HighMark™ L2A9113-P

Does Ogor have any hamburgers finished yet?



How's your burger?



Swapping pictures from the Royal Experience!

Girls on the left, Boys on the right.

Where and when is the next party?

What do you think?

I don't have any summer plans!

Jeanine, someone's eyeing your burger!

Even though he forgot his sunglasses, Robby is still all smiles!

I'M READY FOR SUMMER! I'M SOOO COOL!
